The Home Concert.

Well, Tom, my boy, I must say good-by. I've had a wonderful visit here; Enjoyed It, too, as well as I could Away from all that my heart holds dear; Maybe I've been a trifle rough-A little awkward, your wife would say-And very likely I've missed the hint

Of your city polish day by day. But somehow, Tom, though the same old roof Sheltered us both when we were boys, and the same dear mother-love watched us both, Sharing our childish griefs and joys, Yet you are almost a stranger now;

Your ways and mine are as far spart As though we never had thrown an arm About each other with loving heart. Your city home is a palace, Tom ; Your wife and children are fair to see ; You couldn't breathe in the little cot, The little home, that belongs to me.

And I am lost in your grand large house, And dazed with the wealth on every side, And I hardly know my brother , Tom, In the midst of so much stately pride. Yes, the concert was grand, last night, The singing splendld; but, do you know, My heart kept longing, the evening through, For another concert, so sweet and slow

That may be it wouldn't please the ear Of one so cultured and grand as you; But to its music-laugh if you will-My heart and thoughts must ever be true shut my eyes in the hall last night (For the clash of the music wearled me). And close my heart this vision came-

The same sweet picture I always see ; In the vine-clad porch of a cottage home, Half in shadow and half in sun, A mother chanting her lullaby, Rocking to rest her little one. And soft and sweet as the music fell From the mother's lips, I heard the con Of my baby girl, as with drowsy tongue She echoed the song with " Goo-a-goo."

Together they sang, the mother and babe, My wife and child, by the cottage door Ah ! that is the concert, brother Tom, My ears are aching to hear once more. So now good-by. And I wish you well, And many a years of wealth and gain ; You are born to be rich and gay-I am content to be poor and plain. And I go back to my country home

With a love that absence has strengthened too-Back to a concert all my own-Mother's singing and baby's coo. -Harper's Magazine.
